Exhibiting at the 2019 NCSS Annual Conference will put you in touch with thousands of classroom teachers, leaders, and other decision makers in social studies education. They will come to learn, gather ideas, and shop. Many will cite the exhibit hall among the conference highlights—creating a prime opportunity for exhibitors to make strong impressions.

NCSS makes its first trip to Austin and returns to Texas for the first time in 11 years. Moreover, NCSS is partnering with the National Council for Geographic Education, and the Texas Council for the Social Studies to create an expansive professional learning experience for social studies and geography educators and stakeholders, providing a perfect chance for exhibiting organizations to meet thousands of new teachers and supervisors.
